

Honey loved to say “The world don’t owe me nuthin” but we feel it does! Please honor and pay tribute to this great American bluesman with your contribution today.

THE HONEYBOY EDWARDS FUND FOR THE BLUES ANNOUNCED

Please make your contribution to the Honeyboy Edwards Fund for the Blues in care of The National Blues Museum.

Such contributions may be made by credit card or check by calling Dawne at The National Blues Museum (314) 691-4309.

A Benefit Tribute Concert is planned for November 13 in Portland, OR at The Alberta Rose Theatre.

For further information about the fund and the concert, please contact Barbara Hammerman at 253.858.4444 or see AmandaGresham.com

David Honeyboy Edwards, the “Last of the Great Mississippi Delta Bluesmen” passed away on Monday, August 29, 2011.

Michael Frank, long time friend, musical partner and business manager for Mr. Edwards has announced the establishment of The Honeyboy Edwards Fund for the Blues within the National Blues Museum in St. Louis MO.

Preparations for this fund have been underway since medical issues forced Honeyboy’s retirement in July 2011 from his long and distinguished years of performing. The fund has been created by founders Michael Frank, CEO of Earwig

Music Company, Inc., Barbara Hammerman, CEO Hammerman Philanthropic Partners, Amanda Gresham, CEO of Delta Music Experience, and Lynn Orman Weiss, CEO of Orman Music and Media Group.

The purpose of the fund is to acknowledge the contributions of Mr. Edwards and other elders of the blues such as Robert Lockwood, Homesick James, Henry Townsend and Pinetop Perkins. This will be done through providing scholarships to blues workshops, internships, camps and other events teaching blues history, musicianship, and the business of sustaining a career in the blues business.